Cold Email Gets You Clients

According to MarketingSherpa, email marketing has a 2X higher ROI than cold calling, or networking.

It's cheaper than paid advertising, and much quicker than SEO.

What the world is saying about Cold Email:

“Cold e-mailing is the most effective and untapped form of networking, not to mention the cheapest one”

-Forbes

“We’ve formed valuable mentor relationships via cold email. Cold emails are often our only avenue for reaching important sources; in our businesses, cold emails are frequently how we make sales and drive growth.”

-Fast Company

Salesforce:

“Many sales representatives choose either cold calling or cold emailing as their preferred means to start the sales process.”

-SalesForce

...But Cold email won't work this well forever

Marketers and agencies are starting to catch on.

Prospects are still hugely receptive to cold-email outreach, but it won't stay this way.

Only 80 Copies Will be Sold - Ever

To preserve the quality of the list, only 80 copies will be sold. This ensures that companies on the list don't get saturated with offers.

As of September 2016, we still have some availability... but at current rates, TechList will be sold out in a couple of weeks.

We will launch other lists in different niches in future.

Who Uses TechList?

Agencies, startups and consultants are using Techlist already. Most of our customers prefer to stay “under the radar”... but here's a sample of the feedback we receive:

FAQ

Does cold email really land clients?

As of 2016 - YES. When your offer is aligned to the prospects needs and desires, cold email gives a HUGE ROI. We've used this list for our own agency outreach, and we had more sales conversations than we could handle. We actually had to throttle our email volume until we expanded our team.

Who are you guys?

Techlist was launched by myself, James Henderson. I'm a marketer and graphic designer. I've landed dozens of clients via cold email for my own content marketing agency - but I know the pain of finding reliable details for quality companies! So I launched TechList to solve that problem.

How did you generate this list?

Techlist was produced via thorough manual research. It was not quick.

Isn't cold email spam?

Not when done right. Here's how that works: use a personalized campaign - address prospects by name. Follow up, but stop when they decline. Include your signature and picture. And always include an "If it's not a fit, just let me know" at the end.

Is TechList for me? Techlist is for you if you offer a service or product that modern, growing b2b tech companies would want. If you're an agency, SaaS, consultant or freelancer, you can use this list to quickly start reaching out with your offer.
